We accept letters of recommendation written for college admission. However, these often do not give us a full picture of a student. We are particularly interested in a student's concern for others and special circumstances, if applicable. If the following topics are not included in your letter of recommendation, please comment briefly below.

Concern for others: We are looking for students who show care and concern for others and the world around them. Please describe or give examples of his/her involvement and level of dedication to service that positively impacts school, community and/ or the student's family.

Special Circumstances: If you believe this student has endured special circumstances or has faced unusual challenges during his/her life that are not included in your letter of recommendation, please describe them below. Also, please give examples of how he/she has found support and demonstrated resiliency to function well in academic and personal settings.
